Website Terms of Use

Version 1.0 | Effective from 4 November 2026

Alphinox Quality AS | www.alphinox.com

1. Website operator and scope

The operator of the website alphinox.com is Alphinox Quality AS, registration No. 40203180478, Dzirnavu iela 42, Riga, LV-1010, Latvia. Contact: info@alphinox.com; +371 67808975.

These Terms explain the use of the public website in Latvian and English. Information on the individual regulated service providers, their roles and supervision is provided in the section “Regulation and Investor Information”. The website operator and the manager responsible for a particular investment service or fund are not necessarily the same legal entity.

These Terms do not replace a client agreement, fund documents, the terms applicable to a particular service, the Privacy Policy or disclosures accompanying specific information. Merely browsing the public pages does not establish an investment services relationship, constitute an instruction to enter into a transaction or amount to consent to the processing of personal data for marketing purposes.

2. Scope and limitations of information and services

The website provides information about Alphinox, investment approaches, strategies, funds, research and contact options. General descriptions and articles do not constitute personalised investment advice, an offer to enter into a particular transaction or confirmation that a particular solution is suitable for you.

Before making an investment decision, review the relevant current documents, risks, costs and conditions for obtaining the service. Where required, client onboarding, suitability or appropriateness assessment and conclusion of the agreement take place through a separate process. The website does not allow users to submit executable orders to buy or sell financial instruments.

3. Investment data and their dates

Performance results, comparisons, allocations and other data must be considered together with the stated period, data as-of date, currency, return and fee basis, benchmark and methodological explanations. A published figure is not necessarily a real-time figure. The time at which a page is opened or technically updated does not in itself represent a new investment-data as-of date.

Modelled history does not represent the actual results of portfolio management. If the comparison approach or the nature of a data period changes, the distinction disclosed on the relevant strategy page must be taken into account. These Terms do not amend or replace explanations of strategy methodologies, fees or risks.

Historical or modelled performance does not guarantee future results. Investments can decline in value, and investors may not recover the full amount invested. Forecasts and assumptions may not materialise.

4. Research and downloadable documents

Research and market commentary reflect the information and assessments as at the date stated. A historical article does not become a new recommendation merely because it remains available on the current website. Authorship, interests and other disclosures accompanying an individual article remain relevant.

Before relying on a downloaded document, check its title, issuer, language, version, and effective date or reporting period. An archived report is not a report for the current period. The language of the website interface does not mean that every document is available in translation. Where the applicable agreement or fund document specifies the legally binding version, its provisions must be followed; contact Alphinox if anything is unclear.

5. Contact, meeting requests and external links

The “Request a Conversation” button or a similar contact link does not, in itself, confirm an appointment. When email or telephone is used, the time and method of communication are agreed separately. If an approved external booking service is offered, a reservation is confirmed only once that service has issued its confirmation.

Do not send passwords, online-banking credentials, payment-card details or identity documents to the general email address. If secure submission of documents is required for client onboarding, the relevant submission procedure will be explained in the communications.

External websites are governed by their respective operators' terms. A link to a bank, supervisory authority, data source or other service does not guarantee the availability of that service, the opening of an account or an investment outcome. Alphinox's assistance in communications with a bank does not replace the bank's independent decision-making and checks.

6. Use of content and security

Rights to the website's texts, images, charts, software and trademarks belong to Alphinox or their respective rightsholders. Content may be viewed and downloaded in the intended manner. Republication, distribution or other use beyond what is permitted by applicable law requires permission from the relevant rightsholder. Attribution to the source does not, in itself, grant additional rights of use.

Unauthorised access to the administration environment, circumvention of access controls, disruption of website operations, introduction of malicious code and impersonation of another person are prohibited. Information must not be altered or presented misleadingly, for example by separating performance results from their stated period or explanations of modelled history or costs.

7. Availability, errors and liability

The website may experience technical interruptions or delays in updating information. If you notice an error, an inaccessible document or contradictory information, please email info@alphinox.com and identify the relevant page. If information is unclear, seek clarification before making a decision.

Alphinox's liability is determined in accordance with applicable law and the relevant agreement. These Terms do not exclude or limit liability that may not lawfully be excluded or limited, including applicable liability for intentional misconduct or gross negligence. They do not deprive consumers or investors of their statutory rights and do not remove the duty to provide accurate and non-misleading information.

8. Privacy and cookies

The processing of personal data is explained in the Privacy Policy, while the use of cookies and similar technologies is explained in the Cookie Policy. These Terms are not a consent form, and reading them does not constitute consent to optional tracking or marketing.

9. Applicable law and contact

Use of the website is governed by the laws of the Republic of Latvia and applicable European Union law. This does not prevent a consumer from relying on mandatory consumer-protection provisions or from having recourse to competent courts or supervisory authorities. These Terms do not establish an exclusive court jurisdiction that would deprive a consumer of such rights.

Send website-related questions to info@alphinox.com. A complaint relating to an investment service must be handled in accordance with the applicable complaints-handling procedure of the relevant service provider; these Website Terms do not replace that procedure.

10. Updates to these Terms

The currently approved version is published on the website together with its version number and effective date. Changes to these Terms do not, in themselves, amend an investment services agreement already concluded and are not used retroactively to restrict users' rights.

Alphinox Quality AS | Version 1.0 | 4 November 2026